Miss Arkansas State University//

Miss Arkansas State University is an annual scholarship pageant sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha for female Arkansas State University students. Miss ASU serves as a preliminary for the Miss Arkansas pageant. Contestants competed in a variety of categories throughout the night, including swimsuit, talent, and evening gown. Contestants were also interviewed prior to the pageant with questions involving their philanthropic platform and current events. Participants are nominated and sponsored by various organizations on campus and around the Jonesboro area. Miss ASU 2011 was Jonesboro native and ASU sophomore Kelsey Dow. Dow raised money and awareness for her platform, "Texting and Driving: It Can Wait."

Right: #Shining Beauties The winners of Miss ASU 2011 were all smiles as they showed off their prizes after placing in the pageant. ## THAT ONE TIME

"Words cannot possibly describe how I felt the moment I was crowned Miss ASU. It was truly an honor to represent my hometown at the Miss Arkansas Pageant this summer!"
-KELSEY DOW, MISS ASU 2011

"My favorite aspect of preparing for Miss ASU was definitely working on my talent. Being out of high school and coming to college, I hadn't had as many opportunities to dance. Being able to practice and critique my talent over and over, and then perform what I love for people was a blast."
-MARY FINLEY, SECOND RUNNER UP

"Competing in Miss ASU was such an incredible opportunity. It's definitely a confidence booster. I loved setting goals and reaching them to get into shape and play piano in front of hundreds of people. I loved proving that it is possible for a woman to be both beautiful and intelligent."

AND AGAIN

"If I could relive any moment, I would stand on stage and anticipate the announcement of the winners again. I was so thrilled and shocked to hear my name announced as talent winner and first runner up. Having not been sponsored by a Greek organization, I loved being able to branch out and represent all ASU students! It was a blessing to meet so many new faces!"

The Student Government Association is committed to providing support, fellowship, and advocacy for the undergraduate and graduate students of Arkansas State University. As the designated representative voice for the students, SGA strives to promote a greater understanding and cooperation with the faculty and administration. SGA works to ensure that the students realize their rights to influence academic policies on the university's campus.

SGA is comprised of student senators from each college and class at ASU. The SGA officers include President, Vice President, Chief of Staff, Secretary, Public Relations, Multicultural Director, and Graduate Student Liaison/ Parliamentarian. SGA sponsored many events throughout the spring semester of 2011 including A Day at the Park. A Day at The Park is a time when all students get together and support the ASU baseball team.

Student Activities Board is responsible for providing programs and leadership opportunities that expand student's college experience outside of the classroom. Furthermore, SAB is responsible for creating a campus climate and culture that fosters social, cultural, recreational, and educational development of the students, faculty, and staff of Arkansas State University.

SAB is comprised of eight directors including: President, Vice President Student Union Events, Leadership and Community Service, Traditions, Global Issues and Awareness, Spirit Club, and Multi Cultural Enrichment. SAB also utilizes a large group of committee members that serve as volunteers throughout the year.

In Spring 2011, SAB hosted many events that included Go Green, MLK, Mardi Gras, ASU Pride Day, and the ever so popular SpringFest. SpringFest is a time of the year when students get to have some fun with small carnival rides, gifts, and also free food. All of these events are very popular at ASU which makes SAB the place to be!

MultiCultural Events//

The MultiCultural Center (MC) at Arkansas State serves five target student populations. These populations include: African American, Asian American, LGBT, Women, and Latino. The MC also works closely with the international student population at Astate to provide multicultural programming.

In the spring of 2011 the MC sponosored many events. In January, the MC worked closely with Student Activities Board (SAB) to plan the Martin Luther King, Jr. week of events. In February, ASU celebrated Black History Month. Several programs within this month included the annual Soul Food Dinner, Fannie Lou Hammer performance, and Celebration of the Arts.

In March the MC teamed up again with SAB to host a MultiCultural Week. This week included a food festival and talent show. Finally in April the MC celebrated Asian Awareness Week, which taught American students more about Asian culture and tradition.

The MC is located on the 3rd floor of the Student Union and is a great place meet new people, study, and learn about different cultures.

Let the Fun Begin

Registered Student Organizations are a big part of college life at Arkansas State University. ASU has over 200 organizations on campus, which bring students of all different ethnicities together. Some of the different organizations on campus include Black Student Association (BSA), Green Team, Project Lovemore, and many more.

BSA hosted many events throughout the year that included a spring talent show. The Green Team also hosted events that supported recycling around the campus. Project Lovemore is a student organization that has raised over $23,000 money for Rwanda in Africa. Student Organizations are a great way to get involved and give back to ASU's community.

In 2010, the Red W.O.L.F. (Wellness Opportunities and Life Fitness) Center had its grand opening. Spanning 85,000 square feet and a cost of 18 million dollars, the Red W.O.L.F Center contains an indoor walking/running track, three full basketball courts, a MAC gym, full cardiovascular fitness and weight training rooms, dance studios and meeting rooms.

The Red W.O.L.F. Center also offers classes to promote workout routines such as an ab class, spin classes and a Zumba class which is taught by Stephanie Halter.

"I have been teaching Zumba since January 2011 and it is the best job ever. Zumba is an exhilarating, easy-to-follow, calorie-burning dance fitness party. Zumba has grown to be the most successful dance fitness program in the world," Halter said.

Halter stressed the importance of working out and how the Red W.O.L.F. Center made it easy for students.

"My favorite thing about the Red W.O.L.F. Center is that it is free to ASU students, giving each and every one of us equal opportunity to stay in shape and avoid the 'Freshman 15'," Halter said.

Halter pushed students to join Zumba or other group fitness classes to keep students motivated and in shape.

"My favorite type of exercise is group fitness. When you workout alone, it's easy to not push yourself as hard or to cut your workout short. When you workout with friends, it not only makes you work harder, but it also helps you enjoy your workout more. Zumba is a great example of group fitness."

Spring Break//

Let's Go Places

Spring Break is one of the most epic weeks of a college student's school year. Spring Break 2011 was a week off from school that was used for travel, relaxing, and spending time with friends and family. Some students took vacations for fun, some traveled for school-related purposes, and others ventured to various places to help those in need.

"Spring Break is always my favorite week of school. Well, because there is no school," Senior Sara Krimm stated. "I always take a week to do whatever I want with no responsibilities. It's nice."

Arkansas State had students traveling to all areas of the United States, as well as the world. A large group of students drove to Florida to enjoy its beaches. Some students traveled North to visit big cities such as Washington D.C., and New York City. Some students even left U.S. soil to experience cultures of other countries, such as Haiti and Mexico.

Regardless of where students were or what they were doing, it is certain that each person enjoyed the much needed break.

Above and Beyond Average Academic Awards//

There are several academic awards presented to students at Arkansas State University each year. Many of the individual colleges have specific awards given to students who go above and beyond what is expected of them.

The ASU-Jonesboro student honors awards for 2011 were presented Monday, April 11, at the 78th annual Student Honors Awards Ceremony. The event was highlighted by the announcement of the Wilson Award and the Distinguished Service Awards, ASU's highest student honors.

National Pan-Hellenic Weeks//

Each semester NPHC organizations host week long events specific to their individual chapters. These weeks included events consisting of Greek unity, community service, and projects that are close to the organizations' heart. Events this year included: Miss Black and Gold, a wing eating contest, bowling night, a kickball tournament, game night, the Express Yourself Talent Show, Soul Food night, Pop Off, the Alpha Oscar-Awards, and Mr. Ebony.

The weeks also included philanthropy and charity events such as community service day at the ASU Daycare, a voter registration booth, a program about cancer and teen pregnancy awareness, donations to the American Diabetes Association, community service with the Counseling Youth Service (CYS), highway clean up, and a heart awareness program. All events were attended by members of each organization in support for their fellow NPHC Greeks.

Spring Formals//

Each year the Greek organizations at Arkansas State University host formal events to cap off the end of the school year. This year, formals were held everywhere from Jonesboro to Memphis and New Orleans. These events are a night away from the hustle and bustle of college life, where brothers, sisters, and their dates can dress up, let loose, and dance the night away.

Formals are also a time for organizations to hand out their annual awards. Each organization is different but members can receive awards such as Brother/Sister of the Year, Best New Member, Highest GPA, as well as funny awards such as Frat Daddy of the Year, Worst Dancer, and Sporty Squirrel just to name a few. While formals only last for a few short hours, the memories made within these organizations will stick with their members for a lifetime.

Greek Philanthropies//

Service is a large aspect of being Greek at Arkansas State University. Each organization on campus is determined to assist others in local, national, and universal needs. IFC, NPC, AND NPHC are committed to specific philanthropies and spend all year donating time, money, and effort to each one.

In hopes to reach full potential, sororities and fraternities hold different fundraisers such as car washes, bake sales, and dinners. Also, fraternities hold week-long events to build excitement and endorse their cause. Greek unity is strongly demonstrated when it is time to participate; every organization is involved in each other's philanthropies.

Greek Week & Up Till Dawn//

The week of April 3rd-10th, every Greek organization at ASU participated in the annual Greek Week. This year's theme was "Greekelodeon" and was full of days that brought Greek organizations together.

Sunday was "All-Greek Church," which took place at Central Baptist Church. Monday night was Trivia, where all the questions were centered around Nickelodeon T.V. shows. Sigma Pi was the overall winners of the Trivia. Capture the flag was Tuesday afternoon, which paired fraternities against sororities with the fraternities winning. Thursday was Walk A Mile in Her Shoes, where all IFC and NPHC fraternities walked one mile in women's high heeled shoes. All of the money raised went to help the Women's Crisis Center in Jonesboro. After the walk there was an all Greek BBQ that was held at the pavilion with the fraternities cooking. Friday was the Greek Week show. During this event, fraternities and sororities were paired together to put on a show that involved a skit and a strut that centered around the "Greekelodeon" theme. Chi Omega, Lambda Chi Alpha, Alpha Kappa Alpha, Omega Psi Phi, and Sigma Pi were the winning groups of the show.

While Greek Week may seem all about competition, there was money raised along the way. One of the biggest philanthropies is Up Till Dawn. All Greeks come together to help raise money for St. Judes. Over $27,000 was raised last year alone. There are also 5-Star awards given out at the end of the week that correlate with the competitions throughout the week. This year the overall winners for NPC were Chi Omega and the winners of IFC was Sigma Chi.

The A-State baseball team finished the 2011 season with a record of 26-31-1, placing seventh in the Sun Belt Conference. Though they got off to a slow start, A-State baseball had an exciting run in the Sun Belt Conference Tournament and ended the season with a bang. In the tournament opener, A-State came back in the ninth inning to send the game into extra innings against Florida International, but ended up falling to the Panthers of FIU. The early loss in the tournament did not stop the Red Wolves from winning two more before ending the season on a high note, though it wasn't enough to get them to the championship.

"We got off to a real slow start, but really picked it up about mid-way through the year," said head coach Tommy Raffo.

A-State's last game of the tournament resulted in a 12-9 victory over South Alabama. Even going 2-1 in the Sun Belt tournament, A-State fell short of going to the championship due to a tiebreaker. Two A-State players were named to the Sun Belt All-Conference Tournament Team: Andy Ferguson and Jordan Castaldo. Ferguson pitched a shut-out against Louisiana-Lafayette, and Castaldo batted .818, hitting two home runs. The Red Wolves' success didn't end when baseball season did, though. Andy Ferguson was selected by the Kansas City Royals in the Major League Baseball draft, and Tyler Smith signed a free agent contract with the Royals.

The 2010-2011 Arkansas State basketball season turned out to be one of many records for both the men's and women's teams. The men came out undefeated on their home turf, won a share of the Sun Belt West title, and became the only school to have two coaches from NCAA Final Four teams. The men finished out their season with a record of 17-14.

The women's team had a good season as well. They posted season-best shooting percentages from the floor, three point range and the free throw line in a Sun Belt Conference Women's Basketball Tournament. They finshed the season with a 20-14 record. To top off the season, women's coach, Brian Boyer became the winningest head coach in ASU basketball history.

It was a roller coaster of a season for the ASU Women's Bowling team. The ladies started off the season with a first place win at the Greater Ozark Classic in Springfield, MO. The Red Wolves won after going 2-1 on the last day in a best-four-of-seven match.

Head coach Justin Kostick said, "It's nice to bring home a title and go 12-1 to start the year."

The team then headed to Merrillville, IN for the Crusader Classic, where they played 6-5, earning themselves fifth place. The next month, the ladies competed in the Capital City Collegiate Classic where they placed third. The following tournament was the much anticipated Mid-Winter Classic, which was held in Arkansas. Currently seeded sixth, the Red Wolves knew they needed to do well, and managed a third place victory. ASU earned it's title with a win over top-seeded Maryland Eastern Shore with scores such as 178-161, 211-179, 214-170, and 192-181. Over the next two months, the team placed fifth at the Big Red Invitational, sixth at the Holiday Collegiate Classic, and fifth at the Music City Classic.

Arkansas State finished the regular season with a record of 61-26 overall and anxiously awaited a bid to the NCAA Championship. The team got the call and attended the Championships for the forth consecutive year. After three matches, the ladies were eliminated from the tournament, ranking them fifth overall and ending their season with a record of 63-27. All photos provided by: ASU Sports Information.

Both the men's and women's golf teams had great success at A-State in the 2011 season. The men's team had its best Sun Belt Conference Tournament finish in over a decade, placing 4th in the tournament. Coach Steve Johnson was pleased with his team's results, and particularly excited about the success of some of his younger players.

"We had some younger players play last year and replace some very solid veteran players, and watching them coming into their own was very good and obviously culminated into the final result," Johnson said.

However, the team's success wasn't completely dependent upon younger players. Senior Lloyd DuPreez, who was Freshman of the Year three years ago, made All-Conference for the third time. That gave him Conference honors all four years. Johnson also said he was proud of senior Warren Hood for stepping up and "being a solid performer" after another player was injured.

The women's golf team also had a very successful year, as they boast an individual Conference Champion Anna Carling. "It was a very good year with quality players, especially with an individual Conference Champion" said women's golf coach M.J. Desbien. "I think that proves that all the hard work all year paid off all the way to the end." Desbien said every player on the team contributed to the success they had in 2011, which was her first year as the A-State women's golf coach. "Overall I would say that the hard work we put in all year and playing in quality tournaments was a great success for us in the end," Desbien said.

The Arkansas State University tennis team had an incredible season, led by dedicated seniors and a freshman who would not quit. The team started the season with five pre season tournaments where they proved to be a top contender. The Red Wolves then opened their season with a 7-0 sweep over UCA. Crowe, Nowland, Herring, Teu, Miloshevska, and Kamal all trumped their competition in singles, while all three doubles teams won as well.

Two weeks later, the team faced FAU. The team improved 2-1 on the season and won 5-2 overall. It was here that then-freshman Biljana Miloshevska began her twelve-game singles win streak. Four games later, the Red Wolves headed to Lake Charles, LA and picked up a win at McNeese State with an overall win of 5-2. Over the next month, ASU defeated Murray State, Southern Illinois-Carbondale, Tennessee-Martin, and Middle Tennessee to string together a five-game win streak.

The team then took a two week break before jumping head first into four seemingly back-to-back games. ASU topped UAB 4-3 and defeated UALR 7-0. This ended the regular season and took the Red Wolves to the Sun Belt Conference Championships. The Red Wolves took their first match with a 4-0 sweep of Western Kentucky. Lucas Bateman, a senior from Waynesville, Missouri, dominated a hurdle race.

The A-State track and field teams finished second in the Sun Belt Conference women's division and third in the SBC men's division of the outdoor championships in 2011. For the men's team placing third was a big upset, as they were picked by most to finish eighth in the tournament. In addition to placing third on the track, the men's team won the Sun Belt academic award for having the highest GPA among all men's teams in the conference. The women's track team bosts an NCAA tournament qualifier and All-American pole vaulter Stephanie Foreman, who finished 10th in the NCAA championships.

"We look for her to repeat as an All-American," said coach Jim Patchell. At the end of the 2011 spring, track and field head coach Lon Badeaux resigned, and Patchell was brought on to take over. Patchell was an A-State track athlete himself in the 80s, and said the program is moving in the right direction, which he is pleased with. "The athletes seem to have bought into what I want to do, and they've been working hard, so I'm pleased with wha I've seen so far," Patchell said. "We're looking to improve a little bit and keep it going." Patchell said he sees tremendous growth in A-State athletics since being an athlete here himself, and that he wants to see track move along with the rest of the athletic program. "People want to identify with a winner," Patchell said. All photos by: Chelsea Weaver

The Arkansas State University Rugby Club had a season full of accolades. The Red Wolves fought hard all season long to grab one of the coveted spots in the National Final Four in the College Premiere Division. The ASU A-side wrapped up their season with an outstanding record of 11-1. The B-side team managed to rack up a flawless record of 14-0. Overall, Arkansas State was named the number three team in the nation.

Not only did the Red Wolves excel as a team, but they also had phenomenal individual success as well. Six A-State members were named to the 2011 Men's Collegiate All-American list which is described as "student-athletes that exhibited excellence on the rugby field during their respective seasons and are recognized, as such, as the best men's collegiate rugby players in America." Nardus Wessels, Roan Farr, Roland Evans, and Shaun Potgieter were named to the list of forwards while Danie Swanepoel was named a 2011 Honorable Mention. Pat Sullivan was added to the list for his position as back, and was also named All-American Mid-South College Premiere Division Player of the Year.

Jake Mizell, Blake White, Paul Steyn Benade, and Yoshiyasu Abe were named to the South All Star and Mid-South All Conference Teams. Dean Gericke was the 2011 Top Try Scorer and tied with Pat Sullivan for Top Points Scorer. To wrap up the season, Coach Matt Huckaby was named 2011 Coach of the Year.

The Global Student Leader (GSL) program rewards the most outstanding student leaders at ASTATE with a once in a lifetime opportunity. This program advances the proposition in the ASTATE mission statement that we prepare students in challenging and diverse ways to become more productive global citizens. In the Spring of 2011, five students had the opportunity to take the journey to Ireland, Germany, Austria, and Hungary.

Several of the sites the group visited included Trinity College in Ireland, the Parliament in Austria, and the lake district of southern Germany. The Global Student Leader program gives students an amazing opportunity to learn about different cultures and experience life abroad.

Sunshine and Freedom

Sunshine and freedom are not the only things that often come along during the summer months. Students took full advantage of the three-month break in order to travel, save a little money, learn at an internship, or take a rest.

ASU students traveled all across the world. A group of students biked over 1,000 miles through the mid-south, some even ventured to Europe! Some students vacationed throughout the states, traveling to Flordia for the theme parks and tropical beaches.

A few lucky ASU students had the priviledge of obtaining summer internships to learn more about their chosen field. One student interned at the Mocha Club, a local non-profit in Nashville, TN, while another interned in Washinton, D.C.!

May through August are always a few of ASU students' favorite months. Students use the much needed break to create memories that will last a lifetime.

Orientation Leaders//

Every year, students from all around the world decide to make their voyage to Arkansas State University. To begin their journey to become a red wolf, they attend Orientation to get the feel of being an incoming freshman. A group of students at ASU take time out of their summer and works very hard to make sure that Orientation runs smoothly and that students get a good feeling the first time they set foot on the campus.

Orientation leaders show students different things around campus, tell them of all the great opportunities that ASU has to offer, and helps them make relationships that can last a life. These leaders are a great attribute to Arkansas State University.

Each year, Arkansas State University holds programs throughout the summer to help incoming Freshman get a feel of what ASU is going to be and how they can become involved with the university. These programs are known as CAMP A-STATE.

This camp is designed to provide students with the information to help aid student's transition process to ASU and includes sessions in Leadership, History of ASU, Getting Involved on Campus, Benefits of Being Involved, Skills for Collegiate Success, College Life, Peer Relations, and Teamwork & Team Play. CAMP A-STATE is a great opportunity and is a great asset to ASU.

Summer Learning// Students Stretch Year with Summer Classes

With fall and spring semesters out of the way, most students pack for the start of summer vacation. Some, however, cut the long awaited reward short for two extra months of learning.

Each college offers classes during June and July. Some last the entire summer with a small break before fall classes, while other courses are split between the two months. Online summer courses are also available.

Operation Move-In is always a huge part of the beginning of the year at Arkansas State University. Seniors, juniors, sophomores, and people from all around campus helped incoming freshman move into their new homes.

Moving in is not an easy process, but with the help of other students at ASU, moving in is much easier. Students helped carry large loads, directed traffic, kept water cold for volunteers, and also made new relationships that will last for a lifetime. Operation Move-In helped many students start their college life off right and readied them to start their year as a RED WOLF!

Beginning of the School Year

Annually, Student Activities Board hosts Welcome Week, a week of events that welcomes everyone back to ASU. With a lot of work, SAB was able to put on daily activities for the student body to participate in.

"A lot of work goes into planning Welcome Week," JoNece Carter, SAB President, said. "We started working last semester. We have to come up with a theme, brainstorm about what we want, contact companies, wait on contracts and much more. A lot of hard work goes into planning, but it was great to see all of our hard work come together."

Some of the events that took place included Games on the Lawn, Name that Tune, and an Organization Fair.

"I love the Organization Fair. I love to see all of ASU come together for this event. Students get the opportunity to see what ASU has to offer. This is also a wonderful event that not only gets the school involved but the community of Jonesboro as well," Carter said.

Carter and her staff were overall pleased with the outcome of this year.

"I think Welcome Week 2011 was very successful," Carter said. "I believe everyone enjoyed all the events offered this year."

Organization Fair//

Promote Yourself

The Organization Fair is an annual event that is sponsored by Student Activities Board during Welcome Week. Organizations on campus and businesses from the Jonesboro community set up booths to give out information to promote their mission and services provided to the ASU community.

Arkansas State Registered Student Organizations (RSO), community businesses, and other Jonesboro associations such as ASU Kayak Club, Greek organizations, area restaurants, and banks promoted student involvement and informed those in attendance about the great aspects of their organizations.

Veronica Heatherly, a junior Graphic Communications major, found the fair very helpful. "The Organization Fair is always a great way to learn about how to get involved in our community. I learned that I have many options specific to my interests, and I love walking around to see how I can contribute to ASU."

With over 140 organizations and businesses in attendance, this year's event was the largest in ASU history.

Order of the Pack is a main event every year at Arkansas State University. This year's event was the 15th annual celebration and was held on September 8th, 2011. Order of the pack was sponsored by Student Activities Board and was planned by sophomore Stevie Overby.

This year, the function was moved from the Convocation Center to the Football Stadium. The purpose of this event is to welcome new freshman to the campus and teach them about ASU history and promote school spirit.

There were thousands of students and wolf fans that showed up for the event. The first 2,500 fans got a free t-shirt in honor of the event. Order of the Pack really showed how awesome it is to be a RED WOLF!

Homecoming Week//

//HOWLoween on stAte street

Homecoming week is a week that is highly anticipated all year long. Arkansas State University announced their 2011 Homecoming theme to be HOWLoween on stAte Street since the game was just two days before Halloween.

All week long Registered Student Organizations competed for the coveted President's Cup. This year there were eleven President's Cup events including: Relay Games on the Lawn, Fear Factor, Laser Tag, Pumpkin Carving Contest, HOWLoween Trivia, Step Show, Costume Contest, Scavenger Hunt, Yell Like Hell, Spooktacular Banner Competition, and a Chili Cook Off. Nineteen RSO's participated in the Homecoming Events, and at the end of the week Chi Omega won the award, followed by Alpha Gamma Delta, Kappa Alpha, Alpha Omicron Pi, and Sigma Chi receiving 2nd - 5th places respectively.

In addition to the President's Cup events, traveling magician, Peter Boie, performed One HOWL of Magic Show. "I've never seen anything like that. I was seriously amazed," said Racheal Gipson.

The 2011 Homecoming Court was announced at Relay Games on the Lawn on Monday after much campaigning the week before. Homecoming Court is selected by a combination of an interview and student votes.

Each year five male and five female candidates are chosen to represent ASU on Homecoming Court. This year the five females were: Candi Biggers representing Pi Kappa Alpha, Arielle Moss representing the Honor's College, Kohl McCone representing Chi Omega, Arielle Moss representing Alpha Gamma Rho, and Haley Petrus representing Alpha Gamma Delta.

The five male candidates were Justin Dupree, representing the ROTC, Broc Arender representing Kappa Alpha, JP Phillips representing Lambda Chi, Taylor Woodruff representing Chi Omega, and Hunter Petrus representing Sigma Chi.

Members of the court attend a brunch on Saturday morning before the game, and winners are announced at halftime of the Homecoming Game. This year Candi Biggers was crowned Queen, and Broc Arender was crowned King.

//Bowl Eligible, and Counting...

Another "W" on the record, bowl eligibility, 540 yards of total offense and a trick play named "The Stache" were just a few of the highlights of ASU's Homecoming game against the Mean Green of North Texas. The game brought the Red Wolves to an overall record of 6-2, was their fifth straight victory, and kept alive an undefeated streak at home. With three touchdowns on the night, quarterback Ryan Aplin moved into third-place all-time at ASU with 34 career scoring passes. Wide receiver Josh Jarboe led the team in receiving yards, with 96 yards on seven receptions. Senior linebacker Demario Davis recorded a season-high 12 tackles, in addition to one sack.

"I thought the intensity they brought in the first half was phenomenal," said Head Coach Hugh Freeze. "I feel blessed to be a part of this team, this family, and this University. We've got a good coaching staff and players that love each other."

The final score of the game was 37-14, putting the Red Wolves in a bowl-eligible position with 4 games still left to be played. While bowl eligibility was exciting, Aplin said the team had bigger goals in mind: a Sun Belt title. "We've still got a bigger goal, we've gotta get ready for next week," Aplin said.

THAT ONE TIME

We called an athletic trainer for the other team Fat Albert, so he came into the stands to threaten me. I informed him that if I couldn't take him the guys around me or cops could, and to waddle away - which he did.
JOE CROSS

I saw a fan in the stands with a giant wooden spoon. It was up to my shoulder at least. It was the most inexplicable thing for a fan to wave at a football game.
DANIEL McFADIN

Oh my gosh, the wooden spoon guy! It almost looks like a totem pole, it's the weirdest thing. He was just holding it up in the air, stirring things up I guess.

This year at Arkansas State University was full of fun including events for all college students that sparked different interests in students and faculty. SAB strives to make the campus an invigorating place to be by offering educational and social programming beyond the classroom. Some events that SAB hosted were Welcome Week, Name That Tune, Order of the Pack, Free Bowling Night, I Can't Believe You Just Asked That, Blood Drive, and of course Homecoming 2011: HOWLoween on State Street. Throughout the school year, students are able to interact with the school like never before with the help of the Student Activities Board.

International Students//

There are over one thousand International students at ASU. They come from over sixty countries located on six continents around the world. Most of them are from Asian countries, such as China, Japan, India, Nepal, Korea, Saudi Arabia, Iran, Malaysia, and Pakistan. There is also a portion of students from European, African, and South American countries, such as Germany, UK, France, Finland, Libya, Nigeria, Tanzania, Brazile, and Colombia.

International students bring the world to ASU. Every semester, they celebrate their traditional festivals at ASU such as Chinese New Year, Indian Diwali Festival, Nepalese Festival of Learning, Japanese Cherry Blossom Festival, and Bengali Durga Puja. Along with festivals, ASU also provides a Multi Cultural and International Education Week.

While International students bring a lot to ASU, they also get involved in traditonal American festivals, such as Halloween, Thanksgiving, Independence Day, and Martin Luther King Day. By adapting to American culture, International students have the opportunity to learn, grow, and become global citizens.

Among Arkansas State University's student resources, the Non Traditional Student Services works hard to help all students achieve their dreams of earning a college degree.

"In Non Traditional Student Services, we are continually growing our services to better assist our nontraditional students at ASU. From our Grab n Go Mondays to our educational workshops, we are constantly striving to support our students who face challenges that are unique from our traditional students" said Niya Blair, Assistant Dean of Students.

The Office of Non-Traditional Student Services addresses the unique and special needs of the non-traditional student population. The office connects the academic and social experience of all students through quality programming and provides support to ensure success for all non-traditional students.

ROTC- Are You Army Strong?

The purpose of the Army ROTC at ASU in Jonesboro is to offer classes and hands on training focused primarily on leadership in small organization. The focus offers four main clubs: Rifle Team, Color Gaurd, Scabbard and Blade, and Sisler's Raiders. The program is divided into four years with two consecutive semesters. The first year freshman courses start with MSI and work up to senior level classes MSIV. Staff members include LTC Cecil Clark Professor of Military Science, MAJ Tim Norman, Asst. Professor of Military Science, CPT Timothy Durham, Asst. Professor of Military Science, LT Stephen Morgan, Asst. Professor of Military Science, and MSG John Hayden, Senior Military Science Instructor.

RSO Fall Events//

Registered Student Organizations all around campus are worked all year around to support the college and it's students. Many of these organizations are student led and continue to grow as does the college. Having over 150 organizations on campus provides all different types of students the ability to be a part of something that they really enjoy. These organizations allowed students to interact around campus and meet new people. Organizations such as the Wesley Foundation are always hosting events to intrigue students, while the dance club is teaching students how to dance. Organizations are a great way to get involved and give back to ASU's community.

Greek Recruitment//

In the fall, the Interfraternity Council and National Panhellic Council organizations at ASU participated in formal recruitment. Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Omicron Pi, Chi Omega, and Delta Zeta welcomed potential new members into their suites for a week-long recruitment process, including slide shows, songs, and scrapbooks to showcase the different things that each group has to offer.

Throughout the week, girls attended Information Night, Philanthropy Night, Preference Night, and finally the most important, Bid Day.

While the fraternities' recruitment was similar, it was much more informal and laid-back. Their week was held in an open house style, in which rushees visited the fraternities they were interested in potentially joining. The men of Alpha Gamma Rho, Alpha Tau Omega, Kappa Alpha, Lambda Chi Alpha, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Chi, and Sigma Pi opened their houses for cook-outs and prepared activities, such as volleyball, to interact with and meet the new guys interested in being Greek.

Formal recruitment can be overwhelming, but it is necessary so that IFC and NPC organizations are able to continue the traditions that make being Greek so great!

Mr. Greek Adonis//

Greek Adonis, an annual philanthropy event, is a competition for male Greek new members. The event was hosted by the National Panhellenic Council, and consisted of three parts: formal attire, skit, and toga.

Thirteen men representing the Greek community first approached the crowd dressed in their best suits. After parading around on the stage for a few moments, they were then given a question drawn at random.

In order to share their sense of humor, contestants were expected to team together with their fraternity brothers and sorority friends to present a skit. Each one was judged based on originality and comic performance.

To end, contestants then appeared in front of the audience in a toga decorated with greek letters.

In order to impress the judges and audience, the contestants had to be well-rounded individuals that best represented the Arkansas State Greek community. Mr. Greek Adonis 2011 was Harry Higgins.

Once the three rounds were finished, the pledge classes of each fraternity were introduced, and competed for the title of "Best Men On Campus." This year, Lambda Chi Alpha took that honor.

Miss Greek Goddess//

Miss Greek Goddess is an annual beauty pageant held by the Interfraternity Council members at Arkansas State University. Both IFC and NPC organizations nominate girls from the new member pledge classes of Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Omicron Pi, Chi Omega, and Delta Zeta.

Each contestant participates in three different rounds of competition. Costume, which is based on creativity, skit, which is based on talent and humor, and evening gown, which is based on beauty and confidence.

Chi Omega member Shelby Raysor won the costume competition, Alpha Omicron Pi member Karla Anna Norton won the skit portion, and Chi Omega member Mollie Parker won evening gown. Madison Finch, member of Alpha Gamma Delta, won the Crowd Favorite. Alpha Gam new member Alexis Halbrook won 2nd runner up, Raysor won 1st runner up, and Parker was named the 2011 Miss Greek Goddess.

Each new member pledge class also competed for the "Cream of the Crop" award, which is given to the best new member pledge class. Alpha Gamma Delta won the 2011 title.

NPC Activities//

The National Panhellenic Council is made up of Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Omicron Pi, Delta Zeta, and Chi Omega here at ASU. These organizations host a variety of events each year ranging from fundraising events, philanthropic events, to social functions.

Several annual philanthropic events hosted by NPC sororities are DZ's pancake supper, AOII's Strike Out Arthritis, Alpha Gam's Astate Idol, and Chi Omega's 5K.

NPC members also participate in plenty of social events ranging from IFC formals as well as having drop-ins with each organizations. Drop-ins can be themed ranging from "Risky Business" to "Masquerade".

Being involved in a NPC organization is all about having fun, giving back and making bonds that will last a lifetime. In every sorority, sisterhood is something that is real and everlasting and isn't taken lightly.

IFC Activities//

Throughout the year, IFC fraternities helped and hosted a variety of activities. They continuously did everything they could to give back to the community through fundraisers and days of service. Week-long events such as Pi Week and Derby Days are a tradition, along with individual events.

Not only were they philanthropic, they also held social functions such as Nightwear Before Christmas or Ski Lodge to bring the campus together in a fun-filled night.

The fraternity men not only participated in Greek activities, they were large supporters of everything involving Arkansas State University. For example, at every home football game, each organization set up tailgates to hang out with friends, brothers, and alumni.

Between all of the different philanthropies and registered events, the men of IFC had their plates full.

What's a college football or basketball game without a great marching or pep band to keep the crowd going? The SOUND of the Natural State Marching Band has tremendously grown in the last decade, utilizing a corps style of performance that never disappoints a crowd. This year, the SOUND of the Natural State performed a halftime show full of selections from 70s British rock band Queen. What better way to give the crowd some halftime rejuvenation than by a banding together to sing along with "Bohemian Rhapsody" or "We are the Champions"?

Remarkably, behind the hard work of being in the band, practicing five days a week and traveling with the football team at times, the 100-and-some-odd amount of students represent every major stAte college on campus, and many of them are on some sort of scholarship. Directed by Dr. Kenneth Carroll, the SOUND of the Natural State Band continues to grow both in number of musicians and number of performances, always to deliver a high-energy show.

ET UP FOR THE RED WOLVES, EVERYBODY GET UP!

football or basketball game without cheerleaders is like a song out a melody. It just doesn't feel or sound right. The Arkansas e cheerleaders bring spirit and tradition to every major sporting t. Made up of a coed squad and an all girls squad, the two do ty much everything together. The only main difference is that the squad travels to away football games.

nce the change in mascot from the Indian to the Red Wolf in 2008, ASU cheerleading squads have been able to implement new cheers, nts and traditions.

ou can actually do a lot more with the Red Wolf theme," said girls ad coach Megan Morris.

Though it may seem like all glitz and glam, the ASU cheerleaders are athletes just like every other sport, with long hours of practice and workouts, and consequences for not performing well.

"Last year, if the girls dropped a stunt at a game, they stayed after and conditioned for it," Morris said.

In addition to cheering, members of both squads make community appearances, helping out at elementary school and high schools, or cheering at the Downtown Tailgate and mingling with the community afterwards. The squads are hard at work throughout the entire year, cheering on not just the Red Wolves, but the entire community of Jonesboro.

The Red Wolf football team got off to its best start in years under new head coach Hugh Freeze. Opening t season with two big home wins against Memphis and UCA, Arkansas State recorded its largest back-to-back home crowds in school history. The Red Wolves were 2-2 before beginning Sun Belt Conference play, losing o the road to Big 10 Conference opponent Illinois in the season opener, followed by then-nationally ranked Virginia Tech. However, the Red Wolves turned up the heat when conference play began, going 3-0 in its first three games against Sun Belt opponents, which were Western Kentucky, Louisiana-Monroe and Florida International. The first two were on the road, giving ASU two consecutive away victories against Sun Belt opponents for the first time ever.

Arkansas State's victory over FIU was played on the national stage, as ESPN2 came in town to make the game its weekly Tuesday night broadcast. The win over FIU gave the Red Wolves a 5-2 record, making them just one win away from being bowl eligible with five games yet to be played, three of which were home games. Their early success set the stage for the Red Wolves to have a monumental season; a season that fans had bee calling "a special one" since day one.

A Season for the History Books

FOOTBALL MANIA

The Arkansas State University football team had a season that will go in the books as one of the best that this university has ever seen. The Red Wolves started off the season riding high with a win at the first home game of the season.

"Obviously we are thrilled to get the win," said Head Coach Hugh Freeze." Any win is a good one, particularly when you are playing in a rivalry game that means so much to our fans and our university. But we'll keep it in perspective, it's one win in a twelve-game schedule."

The team did keep this game in perspective and performed phenomenally for the rest of the season. Nothing could help ASU's opponents as they "felt the freeze" all season long.

With a strong senior class providing some of the best leadership the program has ever seen, the Lady Red Wolf soccer team fought through adversity to finish the season strong. Arkansas State finished seventh in the Sun Belt Conference at the conclusion of the regular season, clenching the team a bid to the Conference Tournament after not making it there a year earlier. One of the most unique aspects of this ASU soccer team the new system it's running (the 3-4-3). ASU is one of only five NCAA Division-I soccer teams in the nation t run this system. The Lady Red Wolves played a lot of extra minutes in the 2011 season, setting a new record for the amount of games sent into overtime in one season. Also in the record books this year is senior defende and team captain Stasha Siers, who set the record for most games started in a career. The previous record w 73 games started, which she surpassed in the second to last regular season match against North Texas. ASU also beat its first SEC opponent, Mississippi State, 3-1 at home. Two of ASU's players were selected as top-2 Sun Belt players: junior defender Ashley McMurtry and freshman forward Jessica Jingblad. Head Coach Tafadzwa Ziyenge, in only his second season as head coach, has the ASU soccer program headed for great things.

The Lady Red Wolves dug deep to pull out a superb season. The team opened the season with a sweep over Akron, which opened doors for many more wins to come. During their second tournament, the ladies received a hard earned victory in which Head Coach Justin Ingram said, "after a long day of matches, we certainly walked away with earned victories. Points were given in bunches all day and our service game needed to be sharp, and i was. Allison Kearney was tremendous and got our opponents continuously. Cayla, Tipps, and Jasmine helped lif our offense and we relied on them to finish the play."

When the home game opener rolled around, ASU excelled against Southeastern Missouri, 3-0. The Red Wolves continued their winning streak at the Northwestern State Tournament in Natchitotches, LA defeating Alcorn State, Central Arkansas, and Northwestern State. This rolled into a five game winning streak, all of which took place in the HPESS. These games opened the doors for senior Cayla Fielder to be selected Sun Belt Conference Player of the Week as well as the Collegiate Volleyball Update National Player of the Week. This catapulted the ladies into overdrive, continuing their winning streak and making the season one that Arkansas State University will never forget.

//Spreading Cheer

Students, faculty, and staff at ASU celebrate the holidays in many different ways. One tradition Arkansas State has is the annual Thanksgiving Dinner in the Acansa Dinning Hall. Faculty and staff volunteer to help serve the students a traditional Thanksgiving meal.

Another tradition at ASU is the annual lighting of the Christmas tree in the Student Union. This year Registered Student Organizations placed ornaments on the tree. The choir sang at the event, and cookies and punch were served.

Registered Student Organizations also host many of their own Christmas parties. These events usually consist of a potluck and playing dirty santa to exchange gifts. These parties serve as a great way to cap off the semester before the break.

Another popular holiday celebration at ASU is Cocoa and Carols. The second annual event was held this year on December 1st. This event was sponsored by Student Activities Board and offered carriage rides, ice skating, live Christmas carols, and a snow globe for students to enjoy.

Free Days and Snow Ball Fights

As a white blanket of snow and ice covered the ground, students found new ways to have fun while stranded on campus.

"At first I was so excited that I had to go have a snow ball fight with my friends," Karlee Porter said, "but then I got too cold so stayed in doors. It was a great chance to watch so many Disney movies."

While some students embraced the winter weather, others decided to enjoy the warmth inside.

"I did not want to get out in the cold too much," Josh Flemming said. "I just stayed inside and caught up on my homework. But when I did go outside it took me twenty minutes to scrape ice off my car because I did not think I would be needing gloves so my hands almost froze."

WolfTracks Yearbook Staff/

Many memories are made every year at Arkansas State Univesity. Luckily, students have the availability of getting a yearbook that is filled with many of these memories.

Every year, the WolfTracks Yearbook Staff works very hard to catch every moment and student in action as they live their college life at ASU. With things going on every day on campus, the Yearbook staff is able to take pictures and write descriptions to let students remember all the great times they had at Arkansas State University.

Religious Organizations//

There are over 10 Religious Organizations at ASU seeking their own belief, faith, love, and family in many different ways. They have different kinds of activities, such as Freshmen ministry, weekly lunch, college worship, dialogue study, mission trips, and so on.

Whatever the beliefs of the Religious Organizations, they help and develop ASU students on campus with the spiritual aspect of their life; whatever activities they have, they are trying to share their faith and help us to find our own faith. Students grow intellectually, morally, and spiritually with all these Religious Organizations.

Plants, Animals, and Technos

The College of Agriculture and Technology is home to students who love plants, animals, and the environment. Over a hundred years ago Arkansas State University was founded with strong ties in Agriculture and still has them today. The College is focused on hands-on learning experiences which occur at ASU's Farm and Equine Center.

In the fall of 2006, the College of Agriculture began a free petting zoo at the beef barn facility. The zoo is open twice a year, once in the spring and again in the fall. The Bill and Alice Nix Petting Zoo is home to a variety of animals including llamas, turkeys, sheep, deer, ducks, and goats.

In the College, there are thirteen undergraduate degrees, five minors, and six graduate degrees offered through the College of Agriculture and Technology, as well as a variety of organizations students can become involved with while completing their degrees.

Business// Groups Explore Areas of Business at School, in Community, and Over Seas

The College of Business consists of four departments: Accounting, Computer and Information Technology, Economics and Finance, and Management and Marketing. Within these departments are different organizations that practice business on and off campus. The Marketing Club organizes numerous events pertaining to the Advertising and Marketing fields. Phi Beta Lambda competes in state and national competitions.

This past May, International Business students explored business in Africa through an MBA class called International Corporate Social Responsibilities. These students and faculty members attended the over seas class and worked with micro industries and strategic marketing consultants to improve stability and growth as well as boost the economy.

Informing the World

The College of Communications is a broad department with majors ranging from Communication Studies to Radio-TV to Journalism. It is home to Arkansas State University's bi-weekly newspaper, The Herald, as well as KASU, the Red Wolves television program and radio station.

Along with the various majors in the department, the College of Communications has several clubs, organizations, and opportunities to help students succeed during their time at ASU and after graduation. Lambda Pi Eta, Women in Communications, ASU-TV, National Association of Black Journalists, Public Relations Student Society of America, and Debate are a few examples of organizations that make the department unique and successful. The College of Communications combines a foundation in the liberal arts and sciences with a core of professional courses to prepare students to succeed in the communications field.

Education// Observations and Hands On Learning Shape Future Educators

From elementary education to physical education, the College of Education encompasses a large portion of students at ASU. Some classes practice their skills as future educators by teaching Freshman classes under the supervision of graduate students.

The College of Education offers programs and degrees in Athletic Training, Exercise Science, Community College Teaching, Psychology, Rehabilitation Counseling and Educational Leadership. There are also outreach programs through Childhood Services, Educational Renewal Zone, and Math and Science initiatives, which benefit the Delta and the state of Arkansas.

Engineering//

Discipline, Skills, & Solutions

The College of Engineering at Arkansas State University is recognized regionally and nationally for its academic excellence as well as an unique learning experience available for students. The overall mission of the college is to provide a broad education in the fundamentals of engineering while providing opportunities for specialization in selected areas. Degrees are offered in Civil, Electrical, Mechanical, and General Engineering. The college continues to expand in more than one way. As the enrollment is increasing, the general engineering degree available was joined by discipline-specific programs in mechanical, electrical, and civil engineering and a Masters of Engineering Management program was added. The college is expanding efforts in research and is building a research-based graduate program soon. It is an exciting time for ASU's College of Engineering!

Fine Arts// Through Art, Music, Theatre or Design Students Expand Creativity

While holding about 300 performing, visual, and cultural events annually, the College of Fine Arts at ASU is the only college in Arkansas dedicated to the arts which includes departments in art, music and theatre.

The college also includes the Fowler center which displays the Bradbury Gallery. The Bradbury Gallery hosts traveling art exhibitions and the Delta National Small Prints Exhibition, among student and faculty shows.

Common careers that fine art graduates enter include: artists, designers, photographers, musicians, composers, actors, directors and graphic designers.

Today's Past, Present, & Future

The College of Humanities and Social Sciences is a huge department which includes English, Philosophy, Criminology, Sociology, Geography, Political Science, History, Heritages Studies, and World Languages & Cultures.

With so many different majors offered within this college, courses in the humanities and social sciences serve an important role in students' general education courses. The different classes are crucial to understanding connections between the past, present, and future, connections between their experiences and the world they live in, and connections with their leadership opportunities and education.

WHO'S WHO among college students

Each year, a select group of exceptional students are called forward to accept one of the most prestigious awards the academic community can bestow. This exclusive honor, Who's Who Among Students, has become one of the most highly regarded honors programs in the nation.

Students who obtain this award have impressive, well-rounded resumes, including high academic acheivement, community involvement, as well as volunteer experience.

This year, ASU had 43 students named to the Who's Who Class of 2011, with Senior English major, Kalee Haywood, being named the Most Outstanding. Student leaders selected by the Who's Who program mark a pinnacle of scholastic achievement.

We are Family//

Upon coming to college, students strive to find a place to belong. Greek Life gives those students a community to grow and learn together.

Whether it's competing in Homecoming Week or coming together for philanthropic causes, Greek Life is always entertaining. Greeks value academic achievement, hold many leadership positions in student organizations, and participate in various campus events. Greek students form lasting friendships with students, faculty, staff, and alumni while having fun.

AND AGAIN

"If I could relive any moment, it would be my first new student orientation. I was so nervous and didn't know what to expect! After my nerves calmed down I realized that college was going to be the best experience of my life! I met so many new people at New Student Orientation and I loved every second of it! I knew I would love being a Red Wolf from then on!!! Howl Yes!!!!

GOING ON: FAMILY TIES//EDUCATE

PAULA WEAVER ON GOING TO SCHOOL WITH HER DAUGHTER, REBEKAH HICKMA

Why did you decide to come back to school?
My returning to school was not a matter of decision, but rather a matter of timing. Finishing my education has always been at the top of my priority list, especially since my husband's health is rapidly declining. I realize the importance of getting a degree so as to improve my chances of finding a position in the workforce that will better provide for me and my children. Because of obligations to my family, returning to school wasn't the right time until now.

How are classes harder than if you were fresh out of high school?
Being away from an educational setting for several years has made school somewhat more of a challenge for me. The teaching and school work methods have changed tremendously in that it is no longer the "pencil and paper" way of doing things as it used to be. I get frustrated at times trying to utilize and navigate the systems used for assignments.

How are classes easier than if you were fresh out of high school?
I think that classes are easier for me now that I am an older student in the sense that I do not have the added stress and awkwardness of being "new to the world." I am also more focused and my education is more valued than if I were straight out of high school.

Did you decide to come to ASU because your daughter did?
No, my daughter being a student at ASU had no influence on my decision to attend ASU. I will say though, that it is nice that both of us are here.

How do you feel about being in school with her?
I sometimes have mixed feelings on being a student along with my daughter. I think one would have to be a parent to understand what I mean in saying this. Time passes so quickly that I sometimes think she should still be my "little girl" and not be old enough to be in college. I also feel that I should have already had my education completed at my age. But on the other hand I am really grateful for both of us having the opportunity to pursue our education, and doing so at the same time is an added bonus.

How do y'all help each other through school/classes?
We really don't help each other as far as class work and assignments are concerned. She has her own area of study as well as I have mine. The way that we help each other through school is that we are always there to support and encourage each other. I think we give each other the needed strength when times are tough.

Are you involved in any extra clubs or organizations at ASU?
I would love to be involved in some sort of organization at ASU but unfortunately I have my obligations at home as well as my obligations to my studies and this takes all of my time.

What are your plans for your degree after you graduate?
After graduating with a B.A. in Sociology I plan on attending graduate school earning a Ph.D. in Psychology. I plan on pursuing a career as a Clinical Psychologist with a specialty in mental Health and Substance Abuse Therapy.

GOING ON: UNIVERSAL MUSIC GROUP

ISIAH TATUM ON BEING INVOLVED AND PURSING A CAREER

How did you get started working with Universal Music Group?
Through Music World. The Vice President of artist management at Music World used to work at Universal Music Group. He pulled me in the office during the summer and was like "hey, Universal Music Group is interested in starting something at Arkansas. Would you be interested or be available?" I said yeah okay but at the time I didn't really know what it was. It was word of mouth and a referral.

What does your job consist of?
I am a marketing college rep for Universal and basically what happens is the people from California, it's out of Santa Monica, California, they send me different products for each month.
So they send me CD's or DVDs to give away and to have a viewing party. They send me different tools and different priorities each month to market around Jonesboro and around campus. So basically Alice Cooper, ZZ Top, Justin Bieber, anybody that you can basically think of is on this label and basically I market their product on campus.

What would be your dream experience while working at Universal Music Group?
I would LOVE, LOVE to just you know meet the artists like the main artists that I really like. You know maybe artists that I don't even really listen to but be able to go to their concert so I would love to meet Taylor Swift. Maybe even Justin Bieber or Usher.

How do you plan on using your job to advance your future career?
That's what's happening right now. Basically I am looking to go into the music industry and the film industry because I want to work with both music and movie. Universal has a movie label and basically it is all one entity. Hopefully working for them will get my foot in the door and they will see on my resume "oh he worked for universal so maybe we can allow him on the set of a movie or something like that." So basically to use it to network and for marketing and to be "the business type" and learn what I want to do business wise. My dreams are to work with movies.

During your job so far, what has been the most exciting thing that you have experienced?
I actually got to write an editorial for a new website that they are launching called Digester. Basically it is like Pandora. It is a website where you can go, depending on your mood, and listen to music. So it is like another Pandora and I was able to write an editorial for it. I did the editorial for the gospel section and so I was coming from a college standpoint.

GOING ON: MULTIMEDIA KICK

ABDULLAH RASLAN ON PHOTOGRAPHY AND PROJECTS

Why did you come to asu in the first place?
I studied software engineering for five years at home. Because everybody told me I was so good with computers, so I thought OK I'll just study computers. I really didn't want to do that after five years, so I came here and switched to digital media. Next semester will be my final semester, and I'll graduate in May.

What all have you done as far as photo/multimedia jobs and projects at asu?
I joined The Herald my second semester here, and I've been working for them ever since. I've done video and photography and written articles for The Herald, and was the photo editor one semester. This year I've worked with SAB and Jodie Cherry, and she asked me if I was able to do videos for homecoming week, which was like ten videos. I did ten videos for the homecoming candidates, which took me 24 hours of no sleep, and then I also made the homecoming theme announcement video, which had never been done before, that they played at Order of the Pack. It was awesome, I was very excited about that. It took me about two weeks to make that video, but I was tearing up when it was showing.

You've kind of become the "go-to" guy on campus for photo/video. How did that happen?
I think I just put it out there in the world, because one of my objectives in life when I came here was to be that person. I just want to be that person, and knew I was the person, so I did what I could to become it.

What's your favorite project you've done at asu?
The homecoming video was my favorite. There were thousands of people there, and my mom was here from Saudi Arabia too. There were at least 2,000 people in the audience, and there were a lot of sororities, and I have on video where they were all screaming when that announcement video came on. It was awesome.
My other favorite is the ten videos I made for homecoming candidates, because it literally took me 24 hours. Most of them got like 300 views in one day, which was awesome to have my work be that exposed. I also really loved The Herald commercial I did last year that plays on ASU-TV.

What's your dream job?
I don't really have one. I have been asked that question so many times in the past year, and I have no idea. All I know is that I know what I'm good at, and if somebody asks me to do something I can do it right. Obviously I want something to do with video and photo, but besides that I don't know.

Do you want to stay in the US?
If I find a job that I like, then yes. It's not like I'm just here to study and go back, if the opportunity to stay approaches, I'll take it.

GOING ON: HOWLING THROUGH COLLEGE

HOWL ON BEING THE WOLF ON CAMPUS

What do typical game days look like for you?
Well during football, normally if the game is at six, I'll get there about two, start into tailgating, and do that for a few hours. After tailgating, I go straight to the motorcycle. Then, I do the game. I mingle with the crowd and cheerleaders. I just keep the morale up at the game really. Normally if it's game day during basketball season, I get there about an hour before the game. Basketball is more personal than football. With football, it's like 15,000 people just kind of watching you from afar. But with basketball, it's not outside and it's not as loud. I can mess with people in the stands, and it's so much easier. I can have more props and more performances, or if I want to wear a certain costume or do a skit I can. During football, there are way too many fans in the stands to perform. A few people would see me, but other people would be from far off and not be able to tell what I was doing. Basketball is a lot more fun, and more personal. Baseball definitely isn't as hectic as football or basketball. I kind of just make an appearance. It's a little like basketball in a way, with small stands. I just make an appearance and mingle with everybody. There's a lot more kid interaction at the baseball games. I get to play with kids a lot more.

How are you involved in the Jonesboro community?
I don't just do games, I do a lot of community service as well. I go to daycares. I go to schools, with the cheerleaders and stuff. Last year, we had a big pep rally at the [Jonesboro] Kindergarten Center and the Pre-K. Normally the cheerleaders would go in first and then I would come out and all the kids would go crazy. This year we're going to do a lot of things. We did the "License to Howl" fan appreciation, and before football games I drove around town in a convertible to wave to people and let people buy football tickets. I stood in intersections as well. Howl's definitely a busy boy. I also do birthday parties, and I attended UCA Cheerleading Camp this year. I won two awards, I got second place in 'Best Mascot' and I got the 'Leadership Award'.

What sports season is your favorite?
I'd say football and basketball are a tie. They both have their own different aspects. Like I said, basketball is more personal, but football is a bigger environment. I love the football environment. And plus, there's the motorcycle, which is the most awesome thing any mascot does.

What is your favorite aspect of leading a crowd?
Probably the kids and the small children. Really young children tend to be scared of me, but there's that toddler age where they think I'm the coolest thing in the world. They think it's the coolest thing just to hug me or watch me dance. Older people are fun too; they're fun to mess with.

What are some of the methods you use to get fans pumped up or stay motivated?
Standing still is a no-no. My number one rule is to just be constantly moving. If I'm active, the crowd is active. Just being in character is what makes the difference. I have to keep in mind that the crowd is more important to me than I am to the crowd. If there's no crowd, or if no one is into it, then it's hard for me to do anything. I feed off the crowd; that's what gives me the energy and the will to do better.

GOING ON: VAULTING FORWARD

STEPHANIE FOREMAN ON TRACK AND POLE VAULTING

How did you get started vaulting?
I was in the 7th grade and we had to choose an event to do for track. Pole-vaulting looked most fun to me, so I decided on that.

What is the biggest challenge you have faced pole-vaulting for ASU?
Freshman year I came in with a head case. For those who don't know, a head case is where a vaulter has a fear he/she needs to overcome. In my case, I had to overcome getting hit with the pole hile planting for the jump. It's really difficult to get over, and I had gotten hit twice. I wouldn't plant at all for a while freshman year except at meets, which made it difficult competing.

What helps you to prepare mentally for an event?
You have to zone in to what's got to be done at the meet to reach our goals. I think about what needs to be worked on and what needs to be fixed, and how I can achieve those things. Also, before vaulting, I think about the next level and what it will take to make the next bar.

What do you love most about pole vaulting?
Competing with my teammates. There are six of us (4 girls, 2 guys), and more than just teammates, we're family. We are really supportive of each other.

Besides being on the Track Team, what else are you involved in?
Well, I'm an Art major, so I don't have much free time after projects and practice but I love to horseback ride. My teammates and I love to hang out; it's really important to have a healthy relationship with them since we spend so much time together. I also try to see my family as much as possible. They are a huge support and motivation for everything I want to do.

How have your leadership skills changed by being on the track team here at ASU?
I'd say they've really improved. This is my senior year and I'm the only senior girl on the team so it has definitely been a big leadership year for me.

What are you most looking forward to this season?
I'm looking forward to a very successful year. I get better each year so it is exciting to see what I can achieve this year.

GOING ON: WORKING WITH A MISSION

KRISTEN DORSEY ON PROJECT LOVEMORE

Where did the vision come from?
When we first started coming to ASU, JR had a whole sermon series on love our first semester here. I think that was kind of God's opening way of putting that in my head and teaching me what it really meant to love, because that's something that I never really thought about, and how love can make that big of an impact. Then we went to a concert, Shane & Shane, and they had World Vision tables set up there. I had never really thought about the fact that those are real kids that mean something, and that night it just felt different, and I thought that's cool I want to learn more about it.
So I didn't do anything too sudden, it took a few weeks, but I decided to start sponsoring a child. I knew I didn't have enough money at the time, so I talked to my friend Megan Corbett and we decided we were gonna start sponsoring. We were looking through the kids and Lovemore was one of them. Right when we saw his name, we just knew that was there for a reason. We knew this was the boy we were supposed to sponsor.

How did that lead into starting Project Lovemore?
Through that semester we continued sponsoring Lovemore, and I came to the point where I was like, there is a lot more that we can do. Helping one person is fine and dandy, but there are a lot of other people that need help. Whether that's physical help, or whether that's simply loving more like his name meant. So his name became a daily reminder of, "How can I love more? Am I truly showing God's love by my actions or am I just walking through life doing nothing?" So I ended up talking to Megan and Jenn Tucker about it, and it started out just that we got on the World Vision website and Compassion International website, and saw that we could build a health care center for $25,000 and said let's do it.

What sort of phases has the Project Lovemore journey gone through?
It simply started out as let's raise the money for this health care center and see what happens. I feel like there's been different stages of Project Lovemore. The first thought was let's get a health care center and help people in Africa. The next thought was let's try to unify Christians, let's unify our thought process and really spread the vision that we are called to love, and we're not called to judge people. It's been a cool ride, and it's weird looking back and thinking that was three years ago.

Where has all the money come from?
We started my sophomore year with fund raising, and I think we started out just selling t-shirts. We found out after that that t-shirts were a good hit, because in today's generation people want something if they're gonna give something. So that's been one of our huge fund raisers, all the different shirts we've made. We've done garage sales galore, where people bring stuff from their house. Different people have done car washes, different churches have just given money randomly, as well as different people giving money. We've done a benefit show. We've done a lot of stuff. We did a basketball tournament in December, and we recently started taking pledges to try and finish raising the money.

What happens to project lovemore after the health care center is built?
My heart is that it continues on here at ASU. I know there's people like Hannah Fulmer and Craig Smith that will still be around, and that's my desire. The reason I want so badly for the $25,000 to be raised before I graduate is not just so we can instill something else, but so we can start helping out in the community more. I'm trying to pass the leadership on to somebody else, and I hope that wherever people go that have been involved in it here, it will be a thought in their mind that they should ask themselves, "How can I love more?" and "Am I truly living and loving the way that Christ is calling me to?"

//AND THEN WE SAY GOODBYE. SEE YA LATER. CATCH YOU ON THE FLIP SIDE. SOME WILL GO ON TO PURSUE CAREERS. SOME WILL BE BACK ANOTHER SEMESTER. AND NEW STUDENTS WILL JOIN THE RED WOLVES. ASU CONTINUES TO CREATE OPPORTUNITIES AND PUSH STUDENTS TO ACHIEVE THEIR GOALS. A LOT OF PLAY AND A LOT OF WORK GO INTO MAKING THIS CAMPUS. NEW DEVELOPMENTS WILL ARISE AND BE USED TO BENEFIT STUDENTS. AND WE ALL JUST KEEP GOING ON.//
